Wetaskiwin Ratepayers' Meeting December 10th

All the Aldermen attended the regular meeting of the City Council on Tuesday evening, with Acting Mayor Scott presiding.

After the adoption of the minutes of the last meeting, a letter was read from C. H. Russell, City Solicitor, respecting the procuring of titles to City property. He was instructed to procure the titles.

Honorable J. Seymour, Town Planning Commissioner, wrote at length, respecting the location of filling stations, on the highway near Wetaskiwin. Letter filed.

The manager of the Bank of Montreal wrote, submitting a list of bonds held by the City, giving his opinion that it would not be advisable to purchase more bonds at the present time. Filed.

The application of Mrs. Amundson for Old Age Pension was again considered, and left on the table awaiting further information.

F. B. Connor, C.E., wrote stating he would prepare street levels of the gravelled highway as soon as time permitted.

The Finance Committee was authorized to complete the agreement.

NELS LINDEN AGAIN WINS WITH VICTORY OATS

Toronto, Nov. 19.—In the grain section at the Royal Winter fair, Alberta added another major win Wednesday when Eric Anderson of Wembley won the championship in oats with first place in the open class with his sample of Victory, while Nels Linden of Wetaskiwin ranked second.

First award on early oats went to Herman Trolle, Wembley, mentor of Anderson who last January was made provincial wheat king at the Alberta provincial seed fair. On wheat only T. E. Brown of Vauxhall won sixth.

In sacked winter wheat, Trolle won third with his Peace River entry. Alberta exhibitors also made a bid for wheat prizes on wheat, and P. J. Rook of Morris won sixth.

There were a couple of wins in the open class of seed potatoes, J. A. Bradely of Lacombe coming sixth and F. T. Rickett, Strathcona, eighth.

WETASKIWIN BOY WINS IN OAT CLASS AT TORONTO

Edmonton, Nov. 20.—Alberta boy farmers who sent to the Royal Fair a team which won the Dominion grain judging title, have in the large bench show of grain followed the pace set by Alberta in winning the Dominion wheat championship. Oscar Olsen of Olaton, member of Camrose Wheat Club, has captured the junior Dominion wheat growing title, according to word received here.

Like all the leading winners in spring wheat, his was a fine sample of Revard variety, on which he won the field contest last summer and the top honors at Camrose Junior Seed Fair in the fall. Douglas Clarkson of Grande Prairie with Revard wheat won third, and E. Erickson of Scandia placed seventh.

In oats the boys of Alberta who had entered the Victory variety won four good prizes. Three youths from Grande Prairie, Paul Sebastian, Peter Sebastian and Griffith James, placed second, third and fourth, respectively. Edward Soderstrom of Wetaskiwin won fifth prize in this large field of fine samples.

Rink Will Be Operated by Sports Association Officials

Arrangements are well under way for the opening of the Wetaskiwin Skating Rink on Monday evening. At a meeting of the Executive of the Wetaskiwin Sports Association recently it was decided that the Association would take the season maintain full control of the management of the rink. Conferences have been held with the local school and the Hockey Club officers, and a schedule has been practically completed to take care of all phases of activity on the glory surface.

This season there will be two officials on the job at the rink, one having supervision of the dressing room and the other in charge of the outdoor activities, and explicit instructions were that profanity and misconduct will result in expulsion. Every effort will be made to extend to the patrons every possible comfort.

A schedule provides for skating for school children from 2 to 6 o'clock on four afternoons and on Saturdays with John Isley and the S.S. Board for the purchasing of nuisance ground, at a price of $75.00.

Deputy Minister Robinson remitted cheque from the Dominion government for $87.19, on account of the unemployment relief work last spring.

The Calgary Power Company submitted a plan of an illuminated sign for the intersection of the main highway, the cost installed being about $1,000. Letter filed.

The secretary-treasurer was instructed to write the Board of Public Utilities, asking permission to purchase about $15,000 worth of sidewalk debentures which must be issued by the city shortly.

J. J. Monaghan's application for relief was referred to the Committee. Ald. Ellis reported progress in the preparation for the hospital vote.

The annual meeting of ratepayers will be held on Thursday evening, December 10th, in the Council Chambers.

C. McLeod was employed to supervise the scavenger grounds and keep them clean at $10 a month.

The hospital agreement with the City was finally ratified. It provides for a grant of $1,000 and the charge for a patient is $2.00 a day. Accounts to the amount of $513.57 were passed for payment.

Ald. French reported on the temporary lighting at the corner of Pearce and Gould Streets. The Committee was instructed to proceed with the installation.

The Mayor of Wetaskiwin, R. W. Mabley, chairman of the Town Planning Commission, and James S. Orr, were appointed to the Board from the Town Planning Commission.

After the consideration of many other minor matters, the meeting adjourned.

KIWANIAN MACALLISTER SPEAKER AT CLUB LUNCHEON

The Wetaskiwin Kiwanis held another very interesting meeting on Tuesday evening, when Kivian W. A. MacAllister gave a talk on Dairying in Western Canada. He stated that dairying commenced in Manitoba and that the Selkirk brought the first cows into that country about the year 1813. Referring to dairying in Alberta, the first cheese factory was started in Springbank in 1886, while the first creamery was located in Wetaskiwin in 1897. Several other creameries were started in the province about this time, but many soon found themselves in financial difficulties, and were unable to carry on. Up to the time the Babcock tester was used, all cream was bought by inches, the cream being measured after it had risen. But today the tester is generally used, which is a guarantee of fair dealing both to the seller and buyer. Kivian MacAllister concluded by giving a Babcock test and explained the process, which was very interesting to those present.

Following nearly eight years of yeoman service to Hanna and community, the Kiwanis Club will suspend next month, for a year at least, owing to dwindling interest.

from 2 to 4. The Wetaskiwin Hockey Club will have the ice for practice purposes from 8 to 9:30 on Mondays and Thursdays. Hours will be given to the High School hockey team on two evenings. No public school children will be allowed on the ice after 9 p.m. The schedule provides for skating privileges that should meet all requirements, though the Committee reserves the right to make alterations without notice when deemed necessary. Hockey matches will probably be played on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday evenings, with the city team, it is expected, linked up in a Leduc-Camrose-Ponoka-Wetaskiwin league.

At a meeting of the Association executive on Tuesday, Messrs. C. D. Enman, H. B. Chalmers, Sims and C. B. McMurdo were selected as a committee of management to supervise operations. Season tickets may be procured from C. B. McMurdo, at his office.

PAYNE WINS RED DEER ELECTION BY 141. FINAL COUNT

Red Deer, Nov. 20.—The third and final count of the ballots cast in the Red Deer constituency's by-election of Monday, November 16, definitely gives the seat to W. E. Payne K.C. Conservative candidate for the position made vacant by the death of G. W. Smith, late U.F.A. member of the provincial legislature.

Returning Officer J. E. C. Oldford completed the count late Thursday afternoon, after a necessary delay while waiting for five country ballot boxes to reach the central office.

In the third and last count votes were divided between the two leaders. Payne was given 1,804 and Gault 1,663. This gave a clear majority of 141 votes to Payne.

There will be two vacancies on the public school board, as the terms of office of Trustees Moore and Dr. Gunderson terminate this year. There may be several dark horses, but we have not heard of any aspirants for any of the vacancies.

OLD TIMER RECALLS EARLY MEMORIES OF WETASKIWIN

H. E. Teeple of Camrose, in an article in the Canadian, makes the following reference to his residence here in the early days:

"The wait at Wetaskiwin was a pleasant surprise. I had through the old-time 'Driard' and 'Criterion' under the courtesy of a very considerate clerk at the 'Driard'. These old hotels brought back fond memories of the past and of the old-timers of the Last Great West who were there thirty years ago. Bob Edwards was there with his 'Wetaskiwin Wave' and his most brilliant and popular personality, which was ever a well of entertainment and goodwill to all. Among the old gang which I recall were also Joe Gies (the horseman); Geo. Lane, Bill Egglestone (also a horseman), Cal Young, Pat Burns, Ed. Nennelly and Wilkie (both ex-Monties and South African veterans), Walter Martin, Vic Campbell, Bob Angus, Frank Hamilton, 'Blue' Smith, and many others whose names I have forgotten. Nearing train time I was again agreeably surprised to meet with a most pleasant policeman, and although not to handsome as our neighbor Mr. Crowley, he was very friendly as he exhibited to me his bunch of unemployed who were occupying the entire floor space of the men's waiting room in various attitudes of repose. I did not learn this policeman's name, but am practically certain he is not Scotch."

ORGANIZATION EFFECTED FOR RED CROSS APPEAL

A meeting was held at the Palliser Hotel, Calgary, on Friday last, under chairmanship of Colonel James Ramsey, to consider the organization of a Central Committee and other plans in connection with arrangements for the co-operation of this Province in the National Emergency Appeal, which is to be made by the Red Cross and will be launched by the Rt. Honorable B. B. Bennett, Prime Minister of Canada, in the near future, endorsed by the Premiers of the Provinces.

A Central Committee was appointed to act in co-operation with the Provincial Office of the Red Cross and to take charge of plans for the National Appeal in this Province, Mayor Howatt being a member.

Important Resolutions Considered by Trustees

Owing to the inclement weather, the attendance at the meeting of the Wetaskiwin Inspectorate School Trustees' Association at the Alexander School on Saturday last, was not as large as desired, but considerable important business was transacted.

After the preliminary remarks of V. E. Thompson, President, who occupied the chair, H. C. Cooke, chairman of the Wetaskiwin School Board, briefly addressed the gathering and welcomed the delegates to the city and to the school.

The principal address of the afternoon was given by Mr. Black, who spoke of the work of the School Fair throughout the province. The idea originated with Mr. Holton of Olds School of Agriculture, and in September, 1916, a little work was done in the community of Olds. Last year there were 145 school fair centres in Alberta, representing some eight to twelve schools each. The program is now very practical and includes almost everything pertaining to the activity of the boy or girl. Among the objects are to improve the work of the boy and girl and to bring pupils and teachers closer together. In some districts the school fair takes the place of the other fairs, while in some centers two days occupied the school fair work. The Department of Agriculture pays two-thirds of the grant for stock, while the Department of Education also makes a liberal grant to each school fair district. Diplomas are awarded to the individual as well as the room securing the largest number of points. The boy or girl winning the highest number of points at each centre is given a scholarship for one week absolutely free at a school of Agriculture, and at each of the four Schools of Agriculture in the Province the boy or girl making the best showing during the week is given one year's free tuition at an Agricultural School. To obtain the best results a school fair district should comprise from eight to ten schools. All fairs are held the first week in September, and the boys and girls entering the competition receive free of charge vegetables and flower seeds, weed mounting cards and bulletins. President Thompson stated that the Board of Trade would assist the School Fair in every way as well as continue to help the swine clubs and seed fairs, although he felt that the Board of Trade was not receiving the support it should in the way of membership.

A committee consisting of Roy Ballhoun, Eli Moore and W. Maxwell was appointed to see what could be done towards organizing a school fair district at the earliest possible date.

The finances of the Association were then considered, and it was decided that each school district in the Inspectorate be asked to contribute a membership fee of $1.00 per year.

Three important and far-reaching resolutions were then dealt with, namely:

"Whereas, the Department of Education has amended the Teachers' Agreement, whereby a School Board can not ask a teacher for her resignation only in the month of June; and whereas if a School District get a poor or incompetent teacher, they have to keep her or him for the whole year, which is unfair to the pupils of that School District, unless they get the approval of the Inspector; therefore, be it resolved that the Wetaskiwin Inspectorate School Trustees' Association request the Department of Education to cancel or repeal Clause 157 (a) part of the School Act."

"Whereas, Rural School Districts have not enough representation on the Board of the Alberta School Trustees' Association, therefore be it resolved that provision be made to elect a larger number of rural school trustees to that Board."

"Resolved, that this convention goes on record as being opposed to married women teachers except in cases where the husband is physically or mentally deficient."

The election of officers resulted in the re-election of V. E. Thompson as President, Eli Moore as Vice-President, and Fred Kaiser of Wynne, as Secretary-Treasurer. The next meeting of the Association will be held early in June.

WETASKIWIN SEED FAIR TO BE HELD DECEMBER 19

At a meeting of the Agricultural Committee of the Wetaskiwin Board of Trade Tuesday afternoon, it was decided to hold a Seed Fair on Saturday, December 19th. All those intending to exhibit grains should lose no time in prepping their exhibits, and having them tested for germination. Samples may be left at the office of the Municipal District of Montserrat when ready. Particulars later.

ANOTHER RESORT MAY BE LOCATED AT PIGEON LAKE

Mr. Edward Snell of Westmore, who with his brother has a number mill and store on the southwest shore of Pigeon Lake, was a visitor in Camrose yesterday. Mr. Snell is planning to establish a summer resort in the vicinity of the mill, about three-quarters of a mile to the east of it. The area chosen is within the bounds of his timber berth and he believes it will prove attractive to summer residents as there is a good beach, shelter from the wind and a spring which will produce a good water supply. The figures Mr. Snell mentioned in connection with the lots and lumber for building should prove interesting to anyone who is contemplating a summer cottage. Mr. Snell stated that the beach will be located within four miles of the gravelled road. He reports that the grading of the road from Wetaskiwin to the lake has been finished, and that travelling over the road was accomplished with ease when he made his trip to Wetaskiwin and on to Camrose. Snell Bros. were located at Battle Lake for a few years but recently transferred their mill to the Pigeon Lake district.—Canadian.

"I hear you were with a very respectable family before you came to me, Mary. Why did you leave that? Well, mum, I thought I'd like a complete change."

To the Many Children of Wetaskiwin and District

There lived on a farm not more than fifty miles from Wetaskiwin an old soldier, not so very old in years, but rather badly worn from the late war. He was married and had one little baby boy getting on for two years old. This little boy was not as fortunate as some children, because his parents had not a great deal of money, times in those days were rather hard and it was an uphill fight to make ends meet.

This little chap was a good baby and he used to be very contented playing with the firewood and any other little thing that he could grasp in his little hands. One day, getting along towards the time that you all expect a certain old gentleman to bring you toys, father was playing with the little chap and wondered what he was going to do so that there would be some little gift for the boy when Santa Claus should come around.

He suddenly got an inspiration, taking a piece of firewood, he took his old regulation jackknife, that so many times had been the means of getting in on the inside of maconchie and bully beef tins, and he began to whittle away at the wood, the little fellow watching him with great interest. After a lot of whittling a head gradually developed on the end of the wood and the little chap was so pleased with it that he grabbed it and kept it in his possession night and day for a long time, so no more was ever added to that little toy.

Now, boys and girls, if you could only realize the joy that poor little doll brought to the heart of that little chap and also to the father at seeing his delight, you will realize the value of your smallest gift.

On Wednesday, Dec. 2nd, you are going to have the opportunity through the kindness of Mr. Grant, to make a contribution of a toy to some little chap that needs one badly, because that is the price of admission that Mr. Grant is asking you to pay to see the show. I was out by the farm the other day where the wooden doll was made, and it was still there, very much the worse for wear. I noticed the nose had got broken off, but it is still a great favorite.

Now it is your turn. Do not fail.

NATIONAL EMERGENCY
RELIEF APPEAL

It is generally known that the Red Cross Society is the instrumentality chosen under the Treaty of Versailles to co-ordinate the efforts of the various countries signatory to the Treaty, for assisting in the improvement of health, the prevention of disease and the mitigation of suffering throughout the World, and taking this into consideration it would appear to be the only organization for a national appeal for an emergency fund to deal with the suffering, sickness and distress that will be found throughout the various parts of Canada during the winter.

While the governments, Dominion and Provincial, and the Municipalities, are expected to do much to relieve the situation, many cases have already come to light which cannot be dealt with under ordinary relief measures, and recognizing this, with the fact that it is a national emergency, the Prime Minister of Canada, Right Hon. R. B. Bennett, has addressed an appeal to the Premiers of all Provinces for the organization of a National Emergency Relief Organization and Campaign, which would provide the funds to carry on this work.

The Premiers have responded whole heartedly to this suggestion, with the result that Provincial Committees have been organized to undertake this work, and in Alberta the Committee consists of the Mayors of all the cities, with other appointees. In addition, the Alberta organization has been divided into two districts, with a committee in Edmonton looking after the work in the Northern part of the Province, and a Committee in Calgary for the Southern part. The purpose of the organization is to launch an appeal for funds, the objective for Alberta being the sum of $100,000.00 and the campaign will be opened on November 30th next, when radio addresses will be given by prominent leaders.

The funds raised through this appeal will be administered by the Red Cross Society, with the advice and assistance of the Provincial Committee, and the campaign which will soon be launched will take the place of the ordinary Red Cross appeal.

The residents of Alberta responded to the emergency calls made during the war, and with the conditions now prevailing there is reason to expect an equally generous response to this Emergency Appeal.

MANY REASONS GIVEN FOR NATIONAL THANKSGIVING

M. Gratton O'Leary of Ottawa, one of Canada's outstanding writers on Canadian parliamentary and national subjects, brought home a Thanksgiving address many reasons why Canadians this year celebrated national Thanksgiving with real spirit.

In part the address was as follows: "Because there are some among us who appear to think that existing conditions are a negation of what Thanksgiving Day implies, I propose to put these pessimists in the dock, to cross-examine them, to try to find out whether we are really as badly off as they would have us believe, or whether, all things considered, there isn't much for which we can be thankful.

"The decade which followed the turn of the century was looked upon as one of almost unprecedented prosperity; people indeed, still speak of it as the 'golden era'. Well I look up the official record and I find that during this golden era there was $58 in the bank for every man, woman and child in the country. I turn, then, to the present and I find that this year, at this very moment, when all of us are supposed to be impoverished the amount of money in the bank for every man, woman and child is $215—nearly four times as much. The exact figures for the totals are $216,000,000 for 1931, and $2,063,391,000 for 1931. Putting the position another way, we have a billion and a half more of cash in Canada right now than we had three decades ago. Incidentally—and this should be of interest—the amount of money which Canadians have in savings banks at this moment totals $10,000,000 more than they had in the same banks at this time last year, and it is just about equal to their savings in any month of 1929—the year in which all of us were getting rich in the stock market.

"One of the soundest barometers of the prosperity and thrift of a nation, is life insurance. In 1900, the total of life insurance in force in Canada was $431,000,000. Today it has grown up to the colossal sum of $6,500,000,000, which is a gain of 50 per cent to reach year and representing $650 of life insurance for every person in the country—a per capita record surpassed by only one nation in the world. Moreover, on top of these bank deposits, and in addition to this tremendous amount of life insurance, the people of Canada own $3,600,000,000 worth of Dominion, provincial and municipal bonds—$350 for every living soul in the country—and they have financed their own industries by several billions more.

"It will be objected, of course, that much of this wealth is concentrated, and that, therefore, it is not a reliable index of the lot of the average man. The best answer to that is a close examination into general living conditions.

"It may surprise many to learn that in 1911 twenty years ago, 30 per cent of the population of 10,000,000 Canadians out of a population of about 7,000,000 lived in one room, or approximately 5 per cent. By 1921, when the population had grown to nearly 9,000,000, the number living in this condition had fallen to 252,000, or to 2.8 per cent. Today, with the population about 10,000,000, it is estimated that the occupants of one room number less than 200,000; and nearly 50 per cent of all the dwellings in the Dominion contain more than six rooms. More than that, and more important, upwards of 60 per cent of all the homes in Canada are owned by the families who live in them. In this respect, it is doubtful whether there is a country in the world with a better record.

"Many will ask, I know, what about unemployment? Well, unemployment does exist, but it may astonish many of my hearers to learn that had as they believe conditions to be, there are more people gainfully employed in Canada at the present time than were employed in the peak employment season of 1926. If there be those who feel disposed to challenge this, then I refer them to our own Bureau of Statistics.

"Further—and this is as good a test as any—real wages in Canada—and by this I mean wages that take account of the purchasing power of the dollar—of the margin of income over outgo—real wages have during the past 20 years increased by 25 per cent.

"Not only have wages increased, but working conditions have tremendously improved. Twenty or thirty years ago, men and women worked from 10 to 12 hours a day, often under conditions which menaced their health, and sometimes menaced their lives. Today we have Factory Inspection Acts, minimum wage laws, child labor laws, a whole series of other laws, all of them designed to help the worker, to lighten the dignity of toil.

"The truth is that we are showing a greater sense of social responsibility are doing more for those who cannot work, more for those who cannot find work. We are spending $2,000,000 a year for Mothers' Allowances, keeping families together, supporting widowed mothers and their children. We are paying out nearly $15,000,000 a year for compensation to injured workmen. And when formerly we sent our old people to the loneliness and squalor of the Poor House, we are now brightening their twilight years by paying millions for Old Age Pensions.—Canadian National Railways Magazine.

BURDENED WITH BUREAUCRACY

It is not much use nibbling timidly at tax reduction in Canada, so long as the machinery of government continues to roll up its numbers of employees.

At the Canadian Tax Conference in Hamilton figures were presented showing that a total of 1,500,000 people (government officials and their families) were supported by government pay in Canada. With little over ten million people in Canada paying directly to the support of one and one half million, there is not hope of lightening taxation to any considerable extent.

The Financial Post comments that for the years '30, '31 and '32 taxes collected in Canada will average about one-fourth the national income. Canadians will work one day in four to support the bureaucratic structure created to keep them in line.

Radical revision, says the Post, of the spending policies of the different governments is the only way for any substantial relief. There are so many publicly endowed utilities, and the paternalistic projects instituted with in the past few years are all weighing heavily. These include old age pensions, farm credits, freight rate subsidies, schools that embrace most advanced notions luxurious highways, etc., all involving additional administrative agencies as well as government support.

"Government has invaded to an alarming extent the functions of the private individual, has penetrated deeply into the realm of business and has given fatherly assistance in regard to many matters that should be left to each person."

The Financial Post points further to the way in which this burden of taxation is crippling Canadian industry, which are fighting hard to avoid bankruptcy by reducing costs and eliminating waste.

"For example, the British Columbia Power Co. paid one dollar in taxes for the last fiscal year for every $2.00 it paid individuals. Then the dividends were further taxed when they went to shareholders. Many Canadian corporations are paying no dividends at present, so it is easy to believe that Canadian business pays more in taxes annually, than it pays for rental of capital. Why talk about Socialism? Isn't this accomplishing all that Socialists could ask for?

"Private business to escape responsibility has to hold its staff to a minimum, yet governments—federal, provincial and municipal, are constantly under pressure to increase their staffs. We have freely engaged in a process of expanding governmental functions at a time when things looked prosperous and national revenues were gaining rapidly. Citizens could stagger through, complaining but solvent when money came easily. But in times like these, bills are hard to meet.

"The people of governmental authorities of Canada face the absolute necessity of drastic revision in the scope of governmental activity during the next decade. The bureaucrats must hand back to the rank and file of citizenry, the responsibility for the conduct of many phases of the country's economic life that have been assumed by government."

The five Drumheller city councillors, charged with failure to provide relief for indigents, were discharged when they appeared before His Lordship Mr. Justice Ives at the fall sittings of the Supreme Court at Drumheller. The councillors all entered pleas of not guilty. C. A. Edwards, agent for the crown, announced to His Lordship that the prosecution had been unable to find sufficient evidence to continue the case and asked for a dismissal—Mail.

The road program of Fertile Valley M.D. has been finished for the year. Approximately sixty miles of road was graded and built to standard and the work has met with the full approval of the ratepayers. The average cost of the work was $65.00 per mile, which is considered exceedingly low.—Ponoka Herald.

Mrs. Wm. Howes, Port Loring, Ont., writes:—"Owing to having impure blood in my system I was greatly troubled with boils on my face and neck.
I tried several different remedies, but they produced no effect.
A friend told me about Burdock Blood Bitters saying she had used it, with wonderful results, for a similar trouble, and advised me to give it a trial, and after taking two bottles my blood was purified; the boils disappeared and I have never been troubled with them since.
I know of nothing so splendid as B.B.B. for a blood purifier."

Too Much ACID

MANY people, two hours after eating, suffer indigestion—as they call it. It is usually excess acid. Correct it with an alkali. The best way, the quick, harmless and efficient way, is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained for 50 years the standard with physicians. One spoonful in water neutralizes many times its volume in stomach acids, and at once. The symptoms disappear in five minutes.

You will never use crude methods when you know this better method. And you will never suffer from excess acid when you prove out this easy relief.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. 50¢ a bottle—any drug store.

SUNSHINE RELIEVES ALBERTA SUFFERING

Never before in the history of Alberta were the needs greater in respect of relief of suffering than they are today. Through no fault of their own, thousands in the city and country feel the lack of employment and lack of farm products.

An organization that has functioned for nineteen years to relieve distress is the Calgary Herald Sunshine Society. It operates throughout the whole year.

During July, August and September, no less than 7,000 individuals, mainly children, were assisted by Sunshine. In October, 3,434 individuals were similarly helped. With winter weather the number naturally increases.

There are 6,000 unemployed persons in Calgary. Many come from various parts of the province. Country needs are looked after as well as those in the city. Sunshine appreciates assistance of any kind—whether in money, grain, clothing or food. Potatoes, vegetables, almost any kind of farm product will be gladly received.

Those who wish to help are invited to communicate with Sunshine, care of the Calgary Herald.

M.D. DELEGATES STUDY WEED ACT AMENDMENTS

Edmonton, Nov. 19.—Dealing exhaustively with resolutions calling for amendments in the proposed new provincial Noxious Weed Act, delegates to the twenty-third annual convention of the Alberta Association of Municipal Districts devoted the greater part of Wednesday afternoon to business.

A resolution recommending that Canada thistle be placed in class "A," ranks this weed with the sow thistle, and under provisions of the act must be eradicated "forthwith" upon discovery. These are the only two weeds which come under this classification.

Approval was given to a recommendation urging that legislation be enacted enlarging the provisions of the Municipal Districts Act to permit assessment of radio broadcasting buildings and improvements on a basis more nearly approximating the actual expenditure of the broadcasting company in the erection of the broadcasting station.

MIXED FARMING ONLY SALVATION CLAIMS EXPERT

Mixed farming will certainly have a larger place in the west as a result of the lessons learned from present adversity suffered in the wheat belt, stated Samuel E. Cork, Toronto, who is manager of mortgage investments of Confederation Life association, in Edmonton last Thursday.

His company had extensive life insurance and other interests in the west. He said that on the present basis a large part of the province could not be organized into rural municipalities with a local government. It appeared that a solution could be found in creating larger units of such municipal districts.

HERE'S GOOD NEWS

Here's the best news ever heralded for some time. Two Calgary men have made a wonderful discovery. They have discovered a process by which leather can be made into plastic form—leather in form that can be applied as easily as butter is applied to bread, and yet, after it sets, it has all the wearing qualities, the flexibility, the toughness and tenacity of solid leather from which it is made. No tacks or thread are needed. If you can spread butter on bread, you can use it—a child can do it.

The inventors have named their discovery "COMPO LEATHER."

Compo Leather will double and triple the life of your shoes, rubbers and overshoes. It will rebuild discarded shoes and put them into use again. It will add many lives to your moccasins, sheepskins, gloves, mitts and make them waterproof and wearproof. It will rebuild belts, automobile tops, tires, etc. Its use will save you more than a hundred dollars per year.

Compo Leather is an all-Canadian product, manufactured in the province of Alberta. It is fully guaranteed—it must give you satisfaction, or your money will be refunded.

We have some fine openings for agents and canvassers.

TO GOOD LIVESTOCK CHEAPER THAN NOW

And many grain farmers could avoid a repetition of the same distress now suffered in much of southern Saskatchewan by milking a few cows, keeping some hogs, hens and geese or turkeys.

Weeds were now a great problem for the west and control cannot be secured by summerfallow alone. Crop rotation was essential. Some found they had been handling more land than their equipment and help permitted, while two or three quarter sections would be better.

COUNTY SYSTEM GIVEN HOIST

Edmonton, Nov. 19.—A resolution proposing a county system for this province was given a year's hoist when it came before the Alberta Municipal Districts' convention here Thursday.

The delegates also turned down a resolution proposing a provincial land tax, while they called upon the provincial government to bear the whole cost of indigents. Relief for settlers from dry areas and extension of the Old Age Pension Act to apply to aged people from other countries were approved.

Hon. R. G. Reid, minister of municipal affairs, was the special speaker at the morning session. Most of his address was confined to the proposed county system and he urged full discussion of this important question.

During his remarks the minister pointed out that the improvement districts or unorganized sections of the province form a problem at present. He said that on the present basis a large part of the province could not be organized into rural municipalities with a local government. It appeared that a solution could be found in creating larger units of such municipal districts.

Delegates attacked the county system.

A meeting of hockey enthusiasts was held on Monday evening, when the club was organized for the season, and arrangements were made for the playing of this popular game this winter. It is expected that all of last year's players are available, and in addition to these it is expected that one or two new players will strengthen the lineup. An effort is being made to form a league with teams representing Ponoka, Camrose, Leduc and Wetaskiwin, and if this can be effected, Wetaskiwin will be given a good brand of hockey this season.

The election of officers resulted as follows:
Alex Sims, president; Russell Mier, vice-president; R. Alcher, secretary-treasurer; S. B. Stoles, manager and coach.

An appeal is made for the whole-hearted support of the citizens of Wetaskiwin, as a team will be placed on the ice which will be a credit to the community.

DUCKS SHOULD BE GIVEN ENTIRELY CLOSED PERIOD

Succeeding Frank L. Farley of Camrose, A. P. Burns of Medicine Hat, was unanimously chosen president of the Alberta Fish and Game Association for 1932 at the association's annual convention in Calgary Friday morning. Norman Fraser of Edmonton, was elected vice-president, and George M. Sprague, also of Edmonton, was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

C. A. Hayden, president of the Dominion Fish and Game Protective Association, and one of the organizers of the Alberta organization, said that duck hunters were considering the question of holding zone meetings in addition to the annual provincial gathering.

Declaring that mountain sheep and goats were continuing to increase in mountain areas of the province, the report of Dr. H. Frederick Nicholls, of Edmonton, chairman of the 'big game committee, was read. Buffalo were also increasing in great numbers and Dr. Nicholls believed that an open season under supervision would soon be a necessity.

"Due in large measure to the conservation policy and the protection given to all big game within the boundaries of the national parks of Canada, situated within Alberta, there is a healthy increase in nearly all big game."

"A close watch of events in connection with the preservation of moose must be the concern of the association," Dr. Nicholls warned. Because of their size and the tremendous slaughter of them by Indians for food and hides, moose were in danger. To be protected for future generations, moose must be given protection from the Indians.

Dealing with the duck situation in his report on waterfowl and upland game birds, Frank Farley said: "There is a general feeling that the ducks should be given an entirely closed period for at least one year, while many favor giving them entire protection till the end of 1933. In these enlightened times it would be folly to defer too long in a matter of such importance."

"Indications point to a long, ugly battle in the near future, and it will be fought between the true sportsmen on one side and the game hog on the other. Thanks to the splendid work accomplished by such associations as this scattered in all parts of Canada and the United States, the battle can be won for the birds," he declared.

The province must inevitably establish game fish hatcheries, instead of relying on purchasing fry from the federal game fish hatcheries at Banff and Waterton Lakes, C. A. Hayden, chairman of the angling committee, said in his report.

MUNICIPALITIES WILL HELP DEFRAY COSTS INDIGENTS

Disposition of numerous resolutions, an address by Premier J. E. Brownlee, and prolonged discussion on the problem of hospital care for indigent rural patients provided a busy afternoon for the Thursday session of the Alberta Association of Municipal Districts in convention in Edmonton.

The hospitalization matter is one that has been a sore point between municipal districts and hospitals for years and although definite action was taken the principle of the resolution in support of the grant system was endorsed.

Dr. A. F. Anderson, superintendent of the Royal Alexandra hospital, addressed the convention at some length in support of the resolution proposed by J. Watling of Mannville, president of the Municipal Hospitals association.

The resolution was one drafted as a result of a recent conference between provincial officials, representatives of hospital associations, and members of the Municipal Districts association executive. It calls for amendments to present legislation whereby the municipality will be responsible to the hospital for a per diem payment of not more than 75 cents per patient day.

The convention also heard W. B. Milne of the provincial health department whose figures with those submitted by Dr. Anderson showed the losses hospitals had sustained through care of indigent rural patients.

The convention, while endorsing the principle as based on hospital losses were not satisfied with the figure submitted. The resolution is to be redrafted without specific figures to be set until a more exhaustive study of the entire problem can be made.

The meeting was addressed also by A. H. Tovell bringing greetings from the provincial health department.

Board, who outlined the activities of that body during the current year and also by W. D. Spence, chairman of the provincial assessment commission.

Among important resolutions passed by the convention were those urging the provincial government to issue regulations for the control of heavy truck traffic on dirt roads and also a request that the provincial and federal governments take full responsibility for cases where treatment for the after-effects of infantile paralysis costs $1.65 per day.

A resolution taking considerable discussion was one asking for the abolishment of the supplementary revenue tax, and in lieu of this the discontinuance of the capital grant to municipalities. The resolution was not approved.

Synopsis

Six people, Horace Johnson (who tells the story), his wife, old Mrs. Dane, Herbert Robinson and sister Alice, and Dr. Sperry, friends and neighbors, are in the habit of holding weekly meetings. At one of these, Mrs. Dane, who is hostess, varies the program by unexpectedly arranging a spiritualistic seance with Miss Jeremy, a friend of Dr. Sperry and not a professional, as the medium.

At the first sitting the medium tells the details of a murder as it is occurring. Later that night Sperry learns that a neighbor, Arthur Wells, has been shot mysteriously. With Johnson, he goes to the Wells residence and they find confirmation of the medium's account. Mrs. Wells tells them that her husband shot himself in a fit of depression.

At a second seance, Miss Jeremy adds details about a summer resort where Charles Ellingham was known to have been at the same time that Mrs. Wells was there. She also speaks of a pocketbook being lost which contained some important car tickets and letters. Mrs. Dane, alone of the women, seems thrilled by the investigation.

Johnson goes alone and investigates the deserted house. He is frightened by strange noises, as of an intruder in the house, but completes his investigation.

He leaves the house and in his excitement carries off the fire tongs, leaving them in his own bill rack where his wife discovers them the next morning and reproaches him for his nocturnal wanderings. He also forgets to bring away his overcoat, which is carried off by the mysterious stranger. Mrs. Dane learns of his peculiar actions and charges him with possessing an unsuspected sense of humor.

"I am not a humorist," I began stiffly. "I have always believed that I furnished to the Neighborhood Club its only haven of humor."

"Don't spoil it," she begged. "Don't, if you could know how I have enjoyed it. All afternoon I have been chuckling. The fire-tongs, Horace, the fire-tongs!"

Then I knew that my wife had been to Mrs. Dane and I drew a long breath. "I assure you," I said gravely,

A man had stopped and was staring at me. "In what way?" "How does any one trace lost articles?" she demanded. "By advertising, of course. Last Wednesday I advertised for the bag."

I was too astonished to speak. "I reasoned like this: If there was no such bag, there was no harm done. As a matter of fact, if there was no such bag, the chances were that we were all wrong, anyhow. If there was a bag, I wanted it. Here in the advertisement as I inserted it."

She gave me a small newspaper clipping:

Her Kidneys in Better Condition Than for Many Years

Mrs. Antoine Moreau, Lafontaine, Ont., writes: "For many years I had been a sufferer from bad kidneys. They were so weak I could not retain the secretions, and my back would be lame and give me a lot of distress. I doctored, but the only medicine that gave me any help was Doan's Kidney Pills. They have strengthened my kidneys and put them in better condition than they have been for many years."

I told her of the visit Sperry and I had made the night Arthur Wells was shot, and of what we discovered; of the clerk at the pharmacy and his statement, and, last of all, of my experience in the deserted house.

She was very serious when I finished. "Yes, came, but we forgot to drink it. Her eyes flashed with excitement, her faded face flushed. And with it all, as I look back, there was an air of suppressed excitement that seemed to have nothing to do with my narrative. I remembered it, however, when the denouement came the following week.

She was a remarkable woman. Even then she knew, or strongly suspected, the thing that the rest of us had missed the x of the equation. But I think it only fair to record that she was in possession of facts which we did not have and which she did not divulge until the end.

"You have been so ungenerous with me," she said finally, "that I am tempted not to tell you why I sent for you. Of course, I know I am only a helpless old woman, and you men are people of affairs. But now and then I have a flash of intelligence. I'm going to tell you, but you don't deserve it."

She went down into the back sick bag at her side which was as much a part of her attire as the false front she wore with such careless abandon and which, brown in color and indifferently waved was invariably parting from its mooring. She drew out a newspaper clipping.

"On going over Clara's notes," she said, "I came to the conclusion, last Tuesday, that the matter of the missing handbag and the letters was important. More important, probably than the mere record shows. Do you recall the note of distress in Miss Jeremy's voice? It was almost a wail."

I had noticed it. "I have plenty of time to think," she added, not without pathos. "There is only one Monday night in the week, and—the days are long. It occurred to me to try to trace that bag."

"Lost, a handbag containing private letters, car-tickets, etc. Liberal reward paid for its return. Please write to A 31, the Daily News."

I sat with it on my palm. It was so simple, so direct. And I, a lawyer, and presumably reasonably acute, had not thought of it!

"You are wasted on us Mrs. Dane," I acknowledged. "Well? I see something has come of it."

"Yes, but I'm not ready for it."

She dove again into the bag, and brought up another clipping.

"On the day that I had that inserted," she said impressively, "this also appeared. They were in the same column." She read the second clipping aloud slowly, that I might gain all its significance:

"Lost on the night of Monday, November the second, between State Avenue and Park Avenue, possibly on an Eastern Line street car a black handbag containing keys, car-tickets, private letters, and a small sum of money. Reward and no questions asked if returned to Daily News office."

She passed the clipping to me and I compared the two. It looked strange and I confess to a tingling feeling that coincidence, that element so much to be feared in any investigation, was not the solution here. But there was such a chance, and I spoke of it.

"Coincidence rubbish!" she retorted. "I am not through, my friend."

She went down into the bag again, and I expected nothing less than the pocketbook letters and all, to appear. But she dragged up, among a miscellany of articles women like to carry, an envelope.

"Yesterday," she said, "I took a taxicab ride. You know my chair gets tiresome, occasionally. I dropped at the newspaper office, and found the bag had not been turned in, but that there was a letter for A 31."

She held out the envelope to me. "Read it," she observed. "It is a curious hand document. You will probably be no wiser for reading it, but it shows one thing: We are on the track of something."

I have the letter before me now. It is written on glazed paper, ruled with blue lines. The writing is of the flowing style we used to call Spencerian, and it lacks character I am inclined to believe that its weakness is merely the result of infrequent use of a pen.

You know who this is from. I have the bag and the letters. In a safe place. If you would treat me like a human being, you could have them I know where the walking-stick is, also. I will tell you this. I have no wish to do her any harm. She will have to pay up in the next world, even if she gets off in this. The way I reason is this: As long as I have the things, I've got the whiphand. I've got you, too, although you may think I haven't.

About the other matter I was innocent. I swear it again. I never did it. You are the only one in all the world. I would rather be dead than go on like this.

I am unsigned.

I stared from the letter to Mrs. Dane. She was watching me, her face grave and rather sad.

"You and I, Horace," she said, "live our orderly lives. We eat, and sleep and talk, and even labor. We think we are living. But for the last day or two I have been seeing visions—you and I and the rest of us, living on the surface, and underneath, carefully kept down so it will not make us uncomfortable, a world of passion and crime and violence and suffering. That letter is a tragedy."

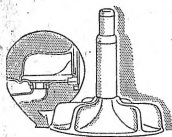

But if she had any suspicion then as to the writer, and I think she had not, she said nothing, and soon after that I started for home.

In one way, Mrs. Johnson's refusal to speak to me that evening had a certain value, for it enabled me to leave the house without explanation, and thus to discover that, if an overcoat had been left in place of my own it had been taken away. It also gave me an opportunity to return the fire-tongs, a proceeding which I had considered would assist in a return of the entente cordiale at home, but which most unjustly appeared to have exactly the opposite effect.

It has been my experience that the most innocent action may, under certain circumstances, assume an appearance of extreme guilt.

By Saturday the condition of affairs between my wife and myself remained

YOU can see for yourself why the NORTHERN ELECTRIC ABC Washer does your washing with greater speed and thoroughness than other machines of equal capacity.

The agitator, which churns the washing, has six large fins... more than any other washer. Each one gives a strong impulse... a total of six hundred impulses per minute... which drives the soapy water through the fabrics with tremendous force.

The fins are so perfectly rounded and polished that they cannot exert any wear on the garments. Even the agitator edge... sunk below the tub level and held rigid by two anti-tilt bearings... cannot catch or damage the fabrics.

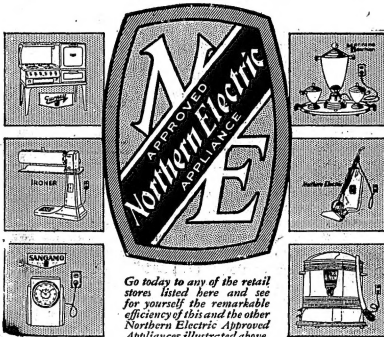

There are other reasons, too, for the efficiency of the A B C. Northern Electric has thoroughly tested all the parts and qualities of this made-in-Canada washer before awarding it the Northern Electric "SEAL OF APPROVAL" which assures you of its great merit.

ed in status quo and I had decided on a meeting of the Neighborhood Club, without Miss Jeremy, and put before them the situation as it stood at that time with a view to formulating a future course of action and also of publicly vindicating myself before my wife.

In deference to Herbert Robinson's recent attack of influenza, we met at the Robinson house. Sperry himself wheeled Mrs. Dane over and made a speech.

"We have called this meeting," he said "to determine whether the Neighborhood Club, as a body wishes to go on with its investigation, or to stop where we are."

He paused but as no one spoke, he went on again. "It is really not as simple as that," he said. "To stop now, in view of the evidence we intend to place before the Club, is to leave in all our minds certain suspicions that may be entirely unjust. On the other hand, to go on is very possible to place us all in a position where to keep silent is to be an accessory after crime."

He then proceeded, in orderly fashion, to review the entire situation up to then.

Mrs. Dane then read and explained the two clippings and the letter; and the situation, as far as it had developed, was before the Club.

We were to go on or to stop.

We broke into animated discussion. The letter to A 31 was the rock on which all our theories foundered, and that and the message the governess had sent to Charlie Ellingham not to come to the Wells house that night. By no stretch of rather excited imaginations could we imagine Ellingham writing such a letter. Who then had written the letter, and for whom was it meant?

As to the telephone message, it seemed to preclude the possibility of Ellingham's having gone to the house that night. But the fact remained that a man, as yet unidentified, was undoubtedly concerned in the case, had written the letter and had probably been in the Wells house the night I went there alone.

In the end we decided to hold one more seance, and then, unless the further developments were such that we must go on, to let the affair drop.

That my wife had felt a certain bitterness toward Miss Jeremy, a jealousy of her powers, even of her youth, had not dawned on me. But when on Sunday, in her new humility, she suggested that we call on the medium that afternoon I realized that, in her own way, she was making a sort of atonement.

Miss Jeremy was out riding with Sperry, but arrived shortly after we got there. Sperry was glad to see us. It was not hard to see how things were with him. He helped the girl out of her wraps with a manner that was almost proprietary, and drew a chair for her close to the small fire which hardly affected the chill of the room.

Sperry looked at the girl and smiled. "Shall I tell them?" he said.

"I want very much to have them know."

He stood up, and with that unconscious drama which actuates a man at a crisis in his affairs, he put a hand on her shoulder. "This young lady is going to marry me," he said. "We are very happy today."

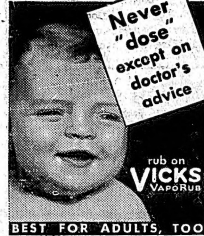

My wife, to my surprise, kissed the girl.

Tea was brought in by Hawkins.

I knew him immediately but he did not at once see me. He was evidently accustomed to seeing Sperry there, and he did not recognize my wife. But when he had put down the tray and turned to pick up Sperry's overcoat to carry it into the hall, he saw me. The man actually started. I can say that he changed color. He was always a pale, anaemic-looking individual. But it was a perceptible instant before he stooped and gathered up the coat.

HEALTH IN WINTER

During the summer season, there are, in general, less illness and fewer deaths. Such diseases as the common cold, pneumonia and bronchitis are present throughout the year, but during the summer, their occurrence is so lessened that they seem, comparatively speaking, to disappear. The coming of the cold weather, however, finds them returning in force.

It appears reasonable to suppose that this is due at least in part, to our failure to live as healthy lives in winter as in summer, and so our bodies are not as physically fit in winter as they are in the summer-time.

In summer, we spend our time in the fresh air. We are either out of doors or, if we are indoors, our windows are open most of the time. In winter, many persons cut themselves off from fresh air as much as possible. They never go out unless they are obliged to do so, and they keep their windows and doors tightly closed. Fresh air is just as essential to the health in winter as it is in summer. According to the weather, bedroom windows should be kept open all the year round sufficiently to allow for a gentle circulation of air through the room.

Many persons who exercise regularly in summer, discontinue doing so during the cold weather. The result is that there is a let-down in their physical condition. The big muscles of the body need to be used regularly if they are to be kept able to do their work. They should be given the opportunity for exercise, through work or play, in winter as well as in summer.

Another cause of lowered health in winter is that, together with less exercise, the same amount of food is taken as when the body was being kept active. Over-eating and lack of exercise result frequently in an upset of the digestive system, constipation and loss of health. If bodily activities are decreased in winter, the food intake should be reduced accordingly.

Overheated rooms in winter are responsible for some of the season increase in colds, pneumonia and bronchitis. The temperature of the room should not be over 68 degrees Fahrenheit. There is only one way to keep a proper check on the room temperature and that is by having a thermometer. It alone settles the argument when one person says the room is too hot and another claims it is too cold.

If people would live in winter more like they live in summer, there would be less sickness than there has been in past years. Keep the body in good condition, by exercise, bring the big muscles into use each day either at work or play. Do not allow your home to be overheated, sleep in a room that is filled with moving fresh air, dress according to the weather, do not shut yourselves in, but get out as much as possible.

Health can be had in winter by living a healthy life.

Questions concerning Health, addressed to the Canadian Medical Association 184 College Street, Toronto, will be answered personally by letter.

ALBERTA BUTTER PRODUCTION

Alberta probably created a new record in creamery butter production this year, according to Dr. C. P. Marker, dairy commissioner. He estimates that production will exceed the peak of 22,339,000 lbs. manufactured in 1924. To date the output is 32 per cent ahead of last year.
